MUSIC LESSON PROCEDURES

PLEASE NOTE:

- Music lessons are generally held during the school day and on the same day each week. However, the time changes weekly so that students do not miss the same classes in consecutive weeks.
- The music lesson timetable is posted on the music notice board outside the library and in the window of the music practise rooms at the start of each term.
- Students must check this timetable well in advance and carefully note the times of lessons in their homework journal. It is the students' responsibility to be at the lesson on time and prepared.
- Students should check their personal calendar against the timetable to ensure they are available for all lessons.
- If there is a difficulty in attending a scheduled music lesson for any reason, Ms. Dennehy (Music Coordinator) or the school office must be notified immediately - this includes absence due to illness or school events. It is the students' responsibility to notify the school of any potential clashes.
- With sufficient notice, it may be possible to reschedule the music lesson - every effort will be made in this regard. If it is not possible to do so, or the student fails to attend, that lesson will be forfeited. Refunds cannot be issued for forfeited classes.
- Singing and instrumental exams are optional but the opportunity to take Royal Irish Academy of Music grades is available. Extra examination costs include fees, grade books, other learning and preparation resources, and accompanist payments.
